ON THE COVER

All during the month of May KMOS will air programs that examine the impact of fentanyl and other opioids.

From an overview of the problem, to stories from the Midwest, we'll meet members of families affected, first responders and counselors working with addicts, and discuss local impacts in central Missouri. We invite you to learn more about the fentanyl epidemic on KMOS-PBS each Tuesday night at 8:00, and all evening on May 27.

On that night we will premiere the new KMOS PBS production Fentanyl and Families in the Midwest: The Devastating Impact of Opioids. This program is a raw and eye-opening look into the deeply emotional struggles of families living in the aftermath of fentanyl-induced tragedy across Missouri, Kansas, and Illinois.

KMOS Passport is here for you. Since its inception, the amount and variety of programs available for streaming on the platform has grown considerably, and it remains a popular member benefit due to your continued support! Keep reading below for information on programs new to your KMOS Passport.

As a public station, our mission is first to provide broad access to the programming while ensuring that we build and maintain local support. That's why many of the programs you can access online are Free Video on Demand, or FVOD. Our FVOD offerings are not only PBS programs, but also come from American Public Television (APT), National Educational Telecommunications Association (NETA) and the BBC.

FVOD isn't the only thing that PBS can offer online, though. Join us for 24/7 livestreams of KMOS-HD, KMOS-Create, and KMOS PBS Kids, as well as a dedicated website for PBS Kids programming, educational games, and resources for educators and caregivers. All of this is provided free.

Members of the station can also access KMOS Passport, which builds on the PBS streaming service by working with program producers and distributors to allow for both FVOD and member-dedicated streaming.

So we're pleased to offer a wide selection of FVOD programs, and delighted to hand-pick special series just for you. Below are a few new titles that KMOS has acquired for broadcast AND with rights for KMOS Passport.

As always thank YOU for your support of KMOS PBS.

In 2017 the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) declared the existence of a national opioid public health emergency due to the record number of overdose deaths in the preceding years. Although there has been some decline in the past year, there are still too many people struggling with addiction and families who have lost loved ones to opioid addiction.

Kyle Hamilton and his sister, Whitney after an overdose and brain injury. We learn his story in Fentanyl and Families in the Midwest: The Devastating Impact of Opioids.

Recognizing that National Prevention Week begins May 11, KMOS will explore the crisis through the presentation of specials each Tuesday night. Of note is the KMOS production of Fentanyl and Families in the Midwest: The Devastating Impact of Opioids. This program, premiering May 27, is a raw and eye-opening look into the deeply emotional struggles of families living in the aftermath of fentanyl-induced tragedy. In creating this program, our producers travelled throughout Missouri and into Kansas and Illinois to conduct interviews with family members, medical professionals and addiction experts.

Then on May 27, all of primetime is devoted to the topic beginning with a rebroadcast of 7 Days: The Opioid Crisis, which sets the stage for the KMOS production of Fentanyl and Families in the Midwest: The Devastating Impact of Opioids. Following this we will hear the stories of individuals in recovery in twelve-step and other programs (Life in the Heartland: Recovery) and end the evening with Appalachia Heart, which follows a Kentucky artist on a year-long project to paint portraits of people affected by the opioid crisis.

To set the stage for this documentary, KMOS will broadcast related documentaries each Tuesday night at 8 p.m. The first provides an overview of the crisis (7 Days: The Opioid Crisis on May 6,) followed the next week on May 13 by two programs that feature people working to save addicts (Opioids and First Responders, and Independent Lens: Love in the time of Fentanyl, a
